Free Educational Workshops

For Families of Children Diagnosed with Cancer

Presentation by

Dr. ZoAnn Dreyer

Dr. Dreyer is the medical director of the Long-Term Survivor Program at Texas Children's Hospital. She helps to evaluate and follow over 1000 childhood cancer survivors for delayed effects of their cancer treatment. Dr. Zo has been instrumental in developing an innovative web-based program called Passport for Care. The program lists the medical treatment a patient underwent as a child and recommends future health care for the individual based on the most state of the art national survivorship care guidelines. The program will help physicians care for childhood cancer survivors as they become adults and move away from the children's hospital where they were treated. The goal of the program is to help survivors live longer, healthier lives. These workshops are made possible by a generous grant from NFL Charities.
